EVENT SUMMARY

This Lunch & Learn meeting first primed attendees with an icebreaker on the facts and myths of gastrointestinal health. Next, the group learned about key facts about colorectal cancer and preventative screening options for colorectal cancer, including the American Cancer Society's Employer Guide for increased screening.

The meeting concluded with ample time for attendees to ask questions, encouraging more in-depth conversations on how to be proactive about their own gastrointestinal health.

Testimonial

"GH Foundation's awareness initiatives are valuable tools in the fight against colorectal cancer. Its recent Lunch & Learn on 'Demystifying Colorectal Cancer' was both educational and motivating. By providing a comfortable environment in which attendees could ask questions, the information was relevant and compelling. The event was also effective – several attendees were persuaded to get a colonoscopy after the event and improved their health by having pre-cancerous polyps removed."
